[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO JUNE 23.

Wall Street Operations.

NEW YORK, June 23.—James Boyd, one of the largest operators in gold in Wall street, notified the President of the Stock Exchange of his inability to meet his engagements. The amount of his failure is $1,000,000. At the other Exchange, $900,000 was sold under the rule on each account. The report of the failure caused a decline in premiums from 12¼ to 11¾.

Cuban Affairs.

NEW YORK, June 23.—On the arrival of the steamer Port au Prince from New York at Port au Prince, Hayti, two passengers, Granl and Armand, were arrested, charged with taking counterfeit money into the country. Several millions of dollars of the money was discovered in their state room. They were imprisoned and will soon be executed. The counterfeits were evidently engraved in this country.

The World's Havana correspondent writes that Grant's message on Cuban affairs was telegraphed to that city by the Spanish Minister at Washington, and soon after printed in hand bills by the official paper and distributed throughout the city. It produced the greatest enthusiasm among the Spanish citizens and volunteers, and the President's name was shouted everywhere. Notwithstanding this the authorities still kept in prison an American, Jose Dunney, and refused to inform Consul General Biddle of the cause of his arrest.

News is received of the death of Gen. Calisto Garcia, one of the ablest of the insurgent chiefs, who was killed in the recent fight near Santa Rita.

A special dated Madrid, midnight, says in the Cortes yesterday a bill was introduced by Morel, Minister from the colonies, for the gradual extinguishment of slavery in all the Spanish possessions, and adopted.

Trades Unions.

CHICAGO, June 23.—A New York special says the Trades Unions of New York are discussing the prospects of the importation of Chinese as laborers. Several Union meetings were held last night, and resolutions passed protesting against the introduction of coolie labor to New York and vicinity. They have arranged for a grand procession and banquet for July 5th, for the purpose of showing their strength and making a demonstration against immigration from any country except Ireland.

A Tribune's Washington special says there is a well founded report that Minister Motley will shortly be recalled from London.

BY THE CABLES.

PARIS, June 23.—At a meeting of the Ecumenical Council on the 18th, Cardinal Guide, Archbishop of Boulogne, made a strong argument against the infallibility scheme, creating a profound sensation.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 21.—The Courier says 2,000 persons lost their lives by the late fire in this city.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The land troubles have broken out afresh, and several parties are threatening each other on the property on the hill half way between the glass works and the rope factory.

John Alexander, the famous advertising agent for Kate Hayes, Parepa Rosa, Anderson, Heller, numberless circuses and shows in San Francisco and the Pacific States, is in the calaboose awaiting the examination of the commissioners of lunacy. He was injured by a throw from a wagon in Oregon some years since, and has never fully recovered from the effects.

The ship Derby cleared to-day for New York in George Howes & Co.'s line, carrying a large and miscellaneous cargo, embracing 30,000 gallons California wines and brandy; 3,000 gallons whisky; 493,000 pounds wool; 280 tons ores; 1,143 hides; 500 cases oysters; 440 cases salmon; 600 bales rags; 140 tons pig-iron, etc.

This afternoon, a little son of Supervisor McCarthy was playing near a horse when the animal suddenly bit him on the left side of the neck and face, inflicting a severe and painful wound.

The weather is cold and fogy.

The hammering down of stocks which has been going on persistently for weeks continues with full force at this afternoon's board. Nearly every stock on the list went lower under the pressure.

There is a secret meeting of the officers of the Second Brigade, California Militia, called for this evening to take measures to secure the reappointment of Gen. Hewston to the command of the Brigade at the expiration of his present term.

THE WEST.

A colorado editor, upon learning that a substance had been invented for turning dead bodies into stone, remarked that the invention could drive a lively business out on the frontier turning dead Indians into stone and selling them for tobacco signs.

A San Francisco merchant who had an unsalable article consigned to him from the East, got his personal friends together, assigned each a street, and instructed them to call at every store and inquire for this particular article. Then he advertised the goods, and the retail dealers, surprised at the unusual call which had been made for them, took them all off his hands at a high price.

A boy named Wyatt Ballard arrived in San Jose recently, having come all the way through by rail from Iowa without paying his way, getting along by hiding in the cars and refusing to get off when ordered. He came to California because he heard it was a good country, and says he has no parents or relatives that he knows of. He is barefooted and poorly clad, and will be apprenticed to some farmer who will give him a home.

A gentleman who has just returned from a somewhat extended trip along the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad, informed the St. Paul Press that hundreds of teams may be seen wending their way to the counties of Becker, Otter Tail and Clay, loaded with Swedes and farming utensils. The rush is great, and there can be no doubt the influx will continue. Most of these immigrants are from the Southern portion of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The California beet sugar enterprise, in charge of Messrs. Otto, Klind and Bonestell, will go into active operation about the first of August, or as soon as the crop comes in. The mill is already in course of erection, near Alvarado, and machinery capable of working fifty tons of beets per day is now in progress of construction. The cost of the mill and machinery will be about $75,000. The company go into operations with a capital of $250,000, and will employ from 100 to 150 men.

A Montana paper has this: Can any one account for these inconsistencies, or the incapacity of Eastern people in 1870 to realize that the Indian is no better now than when he massacred at Wyoming? We fear President Grant has yielded to the vitiated sentimentality engendered by Cooper, Longfellow, and Beadle, and has not stood as faithfully by Sherman and Sheridan as they did by Baker, and that another infamous compact of treachery will be the result of this pow-wowing on the Potomac.

Grasshoppers stop railroad trains in California. The Stockton Independent gives this instance. Judge Underhill, who left this city on a trip to the East on the 6th inst., writes, under date of June 9th, that a curious incident occurred as the train was going up a steep grade in Echo Canyon. The cars gradually slowed down until at last they came to a dead halt. Upon going out it was found that they were stopped by grasshoppers. The ground was perfectly alive with them, and so many of them were crushed by the wheels of the engine, the track was so greased, that the wheels would not take hold. Sand and brooms were brought into requisition, and when the hotel train overtook the other, by dint of its pushing, and men on the cow-catcher holding brooms on the rails in front, the cars got along and soon left the grasshopper region.

Oregon.

[From the Chicago Tribune, June 9.]

The few who have visited the Pacific coast will be glad that so many of our citizens, from all sections of the Union, are making the trip to that most interesting region. It will give them new and enlarged ideas of the extent and the resources of our vast country. But those who visit California should remember that, with all its magnificent scenery, they have seen but one-third of the wonders that lie between the Missouri river and the Pacific. Perhaps it is best to go directly through to California and visit the Geysers, the big trees and the Yosemite, if the tourist must be content with one of the three trips to which reference is here made. South America and Asia alone have higher mountains and more splendid views than scores of those that can be enjoyed in a two or a ten weeks' trip among the Rocky Mountains of Colorado.

We refer to Oregon as the third section to which tourists should turn their attention, and to direct them how Oregon and California can both be visited on the same trip, the most economically and the most directly, is the object of this article. As it involves considerable staging, invalids should not undertake it; but, with reasonable strength, if one wants to feel the glow of boyish vigor tingle through every fibre of his system, let him by all means take the trip. Of course the ladies should go along, for if they get out of the coach at every station to rest themselves, as every one should, they will stand the fatigue quite as well as men, and reap a corresponding benefit. After visiting Salt Lake City two or three days—for both its singular people and splendid scenery will attract and will repay a visit—take the stage at Kelton, ninety-one miles west of Ogden, for Boise City, Idaho, a distance of 245 miles. Time, two days. For the first hundred miles north of Kelton, the mountain views are very fine, when the Shoshone falls of the south fork of the Columbia, second only to Niagara, are reached and should be visited. They are only seven miles from the direct stage road, and it will probably delay the traveller one day to visit them. Two days more, or a ride of 255 miles through the Powder river and Grand Ronde valleys, and the splendid scenery of the Blue Mountains, bring the tourist to Umatilla, where all the fatigue of the journey is ended, for the fine steamers of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company are here in waiting to take the tourist down the Columbia, along which is, by far, the sublimest scenery that borders either of the three great rivers of the continent. A single day, and the tourist reaches the Dalles, where he can indulge in salmon fishing to his heart's content. There he first sees Mount Hood piercing the skies with his snow-clad summit, and for fifty or sixty miles through the canyon of the Columbia, the scenery is of ever-varying and absorbing interest. In sublimity, that of the Hudson can scarcely be named in comparison. At the foot of the Cascades, a mountain of basalt frowns upon the traveler from a height of 3,300 feet. At Portland, Mount Hood, though sixty miles away, can be seen in all its glory, while Mounts Rainier, St. Helens, Adams and Jefferson, all piercing the skies with their snow-crowned summits, add an indescribable interest to the scene. Portland, itself, aside from its sublime scenery, is well worthy of a visit, for it shows what American enterprise and energy can accomplish within a very few years. Here a choice of trips can be made. One is to cross over by stage and steamer—time, about two days—to the head of Puget Sound, and enjoy a visit to one of the most beautiful sheets of water upon the face of the earth. The vast extent of the lumbering establishments along the Sound; the beautiful villages nestling upon its banks, and Victoria, on the south end of Vancouver's Island, restless still under the British flag, will all surprise and delight the tourist. If he wishes to turn south from Portland, it is about three days by steamer to San Francisco, and certainly a sail on the Pacific ocean is something worthy to be remembered. But that which many would prefer is the stage ride of five days from Portland to Oroville in California, where the railway is again reached. The ride through the rich valley of the Wallamet, with the coast range on the west, and the Cascade Mountains on the east, with Mounts Hood, Jefferson and the Sisters rising far above them into the regions of perpetual snow, is full of absorbing interest. The Callapooya, Scott's, Umpqua, Siskiyou, and Trinity Mountains, all afford the most sublime scenery, while to ride for a day in sight of Mount Shasta is an experience never to be forgotten.

If the tourist omits Puget Sound, the entire trip from Kelton, via Portland, to Oroville, can be made in three weeks, and, if the steamer is taken from Portland to San Francisco, two will answer, if time is an important item to the traveler. Surely, those making the trip to the Pacific coast can well afford to add that much to their leave of absence, in order that they may make one of the most interesting and instructive excursions, through Idaho and Oregon, that it is possible to find upon the North American continent. Of course, those who go directly through to California can reverse the route here described, and lose nothing by the change; but let those who do not take the trip, be assured that they miss a source of great instruction and enjoyment.

The Late Fenian Raid.

[From Harpers' Weekly.]

There is something so transcendentally absurd in the late Fenian raid upon Canada that the indignation which it naturally excites is almost smothered in pitiless ridicule. And next to the farce itself was the comedy of the attempt at grave treatment of it in some of the newspapers as a "movement" against the British empire. There were even solemn discussions of the chances and probabilities of this "invasion" by an "army" which did not even seem to be a formidable mob, and whose leader, in the very crisis of "the war," was carried off to jail, by a constable, in a coach. It is certainly shameful that a crude project, by which some men who were possibly honest and innocent, but incomprehensibly foolish, lost their lives, and which daily, under the falsest professions, takes the money of hundreds and thousands who cannot spare it, should be treated with respect by the press of this country. It is the duty of the press to spare honest Irishmen to spare no pains in exposing the mixture of stupendous folly and knavery which is called Fenianism. And when the leaders send a mob against the innocent and peaceful homes of the frontier, whoever does not tell the truth about it becomes a partner in the guilt.

A more ludicrous travesty of a national movement than what is called Fenianism can not be conceived. Certain ringleaders persuade poor men and women to give their hard-earned money, to squander their time, and risk their lives for "the liberation of Ireland!" Public meetings are held, and conspicuous politicians flatter the movement, because they hope to propitiate the voters. There never was people who so sadly needed to hear the truth about themselves as the Irish in this country and there certainly were never any who heard so little. What Irishman, of what ever education or position in this country, ever plainly told his countrymen the truth about this Fenian folly? The best friend of the Irish citizen is President Grant, who promptly warned all marauders and breakers of the law of the risks they assumed. It is only to be regretted that there was not a military force at hand to prevent the crossing of the line by the mob, and which would have saved the lives of those who were shot. But it is not practicable to cover every point of such a frontier as ours; and vigorous measures at the earliest moment of action is all that can be expected. Among those vigorous measures are the prompt arrest of the expeditions. The Fenian detachments leaving various towns for the rendezvous are unlawful expeditions or enterprises against other countries with which we are at peace, and the members should be arrested wherever found. They are as amenable to the laws when they leave New York as when they march from St. Albans or Malone.

The Canadians are no more responsible for the misgovernment of Ireland than the people of Vermont; and it is intolerable that those who have not the pluck to go to Ireland, nor to fight England, should harass peaceable people in another country, and "humble the proud Saxon" by proxy. One of the telegrams from Malone mentioned that the "invaders" occupied the cars without paying, and the conductor "pocketed the swindle for the sake of peace and the safety of his other passengers." The same day "an enthusiastic meeting of the friends of the Fenian cause" was held in Troy, and a company was recruited. "As the recruits were leaving the hall, three were arrested for burglary at the suburban residence of Mr. Gary." Three years ago, when the last "war" was made against Canada, the luckless inhabitants of towns in Maine, upon which the troops were quartered, found themselves at the mercy of a mob, locked up their spoons, and sent their wives and daughters out of town. What security has any home, upon either side of the line, from the forays of such a crowd as the Fenian leaders are able to collect, under the pretense that the Irish republic can be established by robbing Canadian hen-roosts?

But it is no jest for those, either upon the American or Canadian side, who undertake to defend themselves against such incursions. It is not Englishmen nor Canadians—it is American citizens and homes that suffer most from these riotous and murderous outrages upon the frontier; and if the press seconds the Government in its resolution that our laws shall be respected, and our innocent neighbors left undisturbed, the Fenian fire will soon expire for lack of fuel.

Next Presidency.

[Washington Correspondence Chicago Tribune.]

Amongst the political movements on foot to anticipate the Presidential campaign of 1872, is one set up for the workingmen's pending National Convention by the Democrats, to nominate John W. Geary, of Pennsylvania. It is alleged that Geary has not positively committed himself to any vital issues, and that he has strength in his State which politicians cannot take from him. I apprehend that this is an unfounded presumption, like every presumption of the so-called labor party, a party which pre-ordains its members never to rise above their condition, and, therefore, can never be an American man's party. Geary is an uninteresting man who has led a romantic life and would like to be independent of the Pennsylvania politicians. He would make a very good candidate for this sort of party, if it can be called a party; a "lodge" would be a better name for it.

Another Democratic idea is to fan the reputation of Wm. S. Groesbeck, of Cincinnati, and bring him out as the compromise candidate of Ohio betwixt Chase and Pendleton. Groesbeck is remembered here for his formidable speech delivered during the impeachment trial, which surprised all and perhaps influenced some. He was a member of the Thirty-fifth Congress, is a man of fortune and leisure, with a fine, tall presence and intellectual countenance, but he is a man of the few, of austere manners, and with disciplined sympathies, and without cunning or political magnetism. He voted for Pendleton as Governor of Ohio, but favored Chase for the Presidency. It is alleged here that if Chase gives up the race in 1872, Groesbeck will be his choice. Judge Thurman, whose self-command and good luck as a politician have made him prominent during the past four years, is also on the Presidential track. So is Hendricks, whose friends are organizing thus far in advance. Chase is in enfeebled health, and he will leave the city speedily to make one of a series of country visits which he has contemplated.

The Western Democrats are making every effort to prevent the domination of Tweed and Sweeny and their favorite Hoffman, which is the grand Eastern combination. The more sagacious and considerate Western and New England Democrats are reflecting that any candidate known to represent the views of the desperate chiefs of Tammany could be beaten by Red Cloud himself or any other pronounced and outspoken savage. On the other hand, it is not doubted but that the two Tammany roughs are willing to do anything to get control of the country and thus make legitimate their vast issues of railway scrip. Before that time, however, I hope to see the interesting execution I have so frequently referred to in the City Hall Park on the Island of Manhattan.

However, the Republican politicians of New York are nearly as bad as the Tammany people. Now they are about to drive Moses H. Grinnell from the office of Collector of the Port. He won't let the merchants book things out of custom, and he despises the politicians. Therefore, off with his head!

Grasshoppers are so plenty in the San Joaquin Valley, Cal., that a few days ago several Indians collected in a few hours, over twenty barley sacks full of the pests on the farm of Gen. Douglass. In one instance, says the Independent, a family were compelled to vacate their dwelling on account of these pests, which took possession, destroyed food and clothing, and even attacked the children.

SATURDAY MORNING, JUNE 25 1870

The General Outlook

Cheerfulness is a great virtue. Hope and fortitude under adverse circumstances are greatly to be commended. The Democratic party never is but always to be victorious. Its organs before the regular biennial or quadrennial elections always talk confidently but the party is always defeated. It gains occasionally trifling successes here and there, but never gains a general triumph. All the branches of the General Government and three-fourths of the States are against it and there are no indications that a more prosperous future awaits it. The time for the election of members of the next Congress approaches and now as formerly the organs of the party are claiming a victory in advance. The Oregon Herald in a long article on the situation expresses the opinion that "the lethargy which is now stealing over the Republican party will certainly deepen into the sleep of death, unless it is dispelled by an injudicious course on the part of the Democracy." Will the Herald state how much of that "lethargy" was witnessed in the late contest in this State, in which the Republican vote as compared with the last election was largely increased while the Democratic vote shows no increase at all for the space of two years? In 1868 the Democrats of Oregon elected the first member chosen for the Forty First Congress by 1 200 majority. Yet the Republicans throughout the Union elected nearly three fourths of the members of that Congress. Now, the Democrats of Oregon elect the first member chosen for the Forty Second Congress by only 300 majority. What is to follow from the analogy of two years ago, the Herald may divine.

But that paper, in the exuberance of its anticipations, exclaims "The Democratic party is, in our judgment, almost complete master of the situation, and if it sets its ranks properly in array it will so demoralize its opponents, and will win so many actual accessions, that the next House can be carried with ease." Is there any foundation for such an opinion as this? Does not every one see that there is less probability that the Democrats will carry the next House than there was two years ago that they would carry the present one? Such assertions as that quoted above are the effervescence of the barm of a rather warm imagination. The Republican party is well satisfied with General Grant's Administration and will sustain it. He is stronger now with the people than before he took the Government. The question will come up in the great States in October and November in the election of a new Congress whether he shall be sustained or not, and we warn those Democratic organs that affect to believe that their party will be successful to prepare for a new defeat, for it certainly awaits them.

It is amusing to read the labored indictments which the opposition organs are attempting to present against the Administration. Their utter fatuity and groundlessness fit them only for ridicule. For instance the Democratic paper above quoted makes the course of the Administration towards the Fenians and Cubans the grounds of its strongest censure. It seems to think that this country should foster and encourage a [illegible] policy that it is wrong in the authorities not to allow filibustery forces, intent on violence and plunder, to make the territory of the United States a base from which hostile invasions can be made at pleasure upon the territory of our neighbors. This doctrine was practised ten or fifteen centuries ago, but is hardly suited to the era of civilization.

"The Administration" says this critic, "has permitted Spain to almost strangle Cuban liberty within cannon shot of our shores, and has failed to accord to the young Republic even the poor boon of recognition of its belligerent rights." "Republic" indeed! Where is the Government of the Cuban Republic? Who is at the head of it? Where is its Capital? Can anybody on earth tell? Would an agent or ambassador from the United States have a fine job of it, hunting for the "Republic" of Cuba? The Administration has taken the only sensible course in this matter. It does not recognize a power that it cannot find.

The present Congress also comes in for a share of this objurgation. We are told that it has "betrayed its utter incompetence" that it has "failed to lighten the weight of taxation", that it has "failed to do away with the evils of the internal revenue system" that "in fact, it has failed to do any of the many things that needed to be done when its session began." These assertions are probably to be attributed to the failure of the writer to keep accurately informed as to the action of Congress. For in point of fact that body has done the very things which it is said to have failed to have done. It has lightened the burdens of taxation to the extent of fifty or sixty millions per annum, it has corrected the inequalities of taxation and abolished the obvious evils of the revenue system, it has introduced more rigid economy than ever in the matter of appropriations, it has reduced the army and curtailed its expenses, it has dealt in like manner with the navy and has altogether answered in these matters the just expectations of the country.

With the record the Administration has made during the past fifteen months the Republican party can go into the contest for members of a new Congress with confidence that it will be sustained by the people.

Democratic papers everywhere are fulminating against the recent act of Congress to enforce the fifteenth amendment and to prevent frauds in the election of Congressmen and Presidential electors. But the New York Herald very appropriately characterizes it as "a bill to protect honest voters and to punish perjurers, repeaters, ballot stuffers and forgers in our political elections", adding that "it is a good bill for honest men but a bad thing for knaves." The exact difficulty with the Democracy is, that it is the most effectual remedy for illegal voting yet devised. Senator Casserly denounced it as a villainous attempt to reduce Democratic majorities!

The Statesman says that full official returns show that Judge Kelsay is re-elected in the Second Judicial District. His majority is put at 27. This is an important and unexpected result. It makes the Supreme Court Republican. It is also stated that the official count in Douglas county shows that Applegate (Rep.) is elected to the Legislature. This reduces the Democratic majority in the House to seven.

The Supreme Court of Oregon will be very respectable after all. There will be only one bed rock repudiation Democrat on the Bench—McArthur of the Fifth District. The dishonesty that would repudiate the just obligations of the country will be kept out of that important branch of our State Government.

Great Britain Interested in American Tariff Legislation

The British ministry before our Revolution asserted that the colonists in North America had no right to manufacture so much as a nail for a horse shoe. To this day England has striven to keep up a policy that will result in causing this country to furnish raw materials while she would supply us with finished products [illegible]. It is well known that the British manufacturers have watched the tariff legislation of the United States with the greatest interest. Any [illegible] legislation in this country has always been hailed by them with delight. A recent illustration of this is furnished by the London (England) Mining Journal which paper presents a jubilant article on American legislation on British iron and steel. Of the proposed reduction of duty on pig iron it says:

We have good news from the United States. The House of Representatives in their discussion of the new tariff bill have got beyond the debate on the general principles and are now contesting the measure in its details. It has reached the item of iron, and has disposed of the duty upon pig in a fashion most satisfactory to the British ironmaster. Most of our readers know that the existing duty on pig iron imported into the States is $9 a ton. As a sop to Cerberus, hoping thereby the more effectually to secure higher duties upon finished iron and steel than those at present levied, the Ways and Means Committee, through whom the Pennsylvania ironmasters were operating, propose to reduce the duty to $7. Last Monday, however, they found that they were taken in their own net. To the proposition that $7 should be henceforth the duty upon pig iron generally, General Butler moved an amendment bringing down the duty yet another $2 and fixing it at $5 a ton. * * * * We warmly congratulate the proprietors of blast furnace property in Wales, in Scotland, in the North of England and in Lancashire, upon the improved prospects of their trade with the United States which Gen Butler's success foreshadows.

Can any one suppose that a policy which gives so much encouragement and delight to foreign ironmasters is a policy favorable to industry in the United States? The direct result of free trade or a great abatement of duties is to put money in the pockets of English monopolists. These monopolists know it, and hence such gleeful remarks as those cited from the English journals. The paper above quoted also has something to say about the cotton interest. It regrets that American tariffs are too high at present to allow a profit to British manufacturers but it does not despair. On the contrary it is quite hopeful, and says that "if further increments (of the tariff) are imposed after the fashion which has marked the debates on pig iron, the turn of the cotton lords of Lancashire must quickly come." There are those who are horrified at the idea of any legislation for the benefit of the "bloated manufacturers" of our own country, but they look with the utmost complacency upon legislation that will favor the ironmasters and cotton lords of England. While it is the business of British statesmen to secure such legislation as will favor the manufacturing industries of their own country, it is the business of American statesmen to look out for American interests and to take such measures as will best promote them.

The West Side Road

We understand that there is now an opportunity for something to be done for the west side road. Mr W. G. Neilson, the agent of contractors in Philadelphia with whom conditional arrangements have been made for building the road, has arrived and will inspect the work that has been done. In order to carry out the contract we understand that it is necessary for the company here to grade the road, lay the ties and prepare it for the rails. The Philadelphia contractors will do the rest. It is estimated that to prepare the first section of twenty miles to receive the rails an expenditure of something over fifty thousand dollars will be required. Now if Mr Neilson is satisfied with the work as far as it has proceeded this amount of money should be pledged here at once. It should be pledged by responsible men. Let those who have been talking railroad among us and professing the greatest solicitude for the interests of Portland now step forward and show that they mean business. Talk is talk, but it takes money to build railroads. There are men of capital here who have had much to say about this enterprise who can now show their faith and pluck by taking hold of it. Small contributions and petty subscriptions amount to nothing. Let the completion of this first twenty miles be made a matter of business. The prominent gentlemen who have been making such a stir about railroad matters here and who threw so much sand in the eyes of the public just before the late election are the very ones to take hold of it. If necessary—and it would seem to be necessary—let the organization of the company go into other hands, let the whole business be reorganized and vitality, energy and responsibility be infused into it. It is time something were done. Building railroads is not child's play. If men of property and capital here who have seemed to manifest so much interest in this enterprise, do not now help it forward they should hereafter hold their peace.

A Liberal Offer

It will be seen by the letter of Dr Loryea, published elsewhere in this paper that East Portland is willing to lend Portland a helping hand in the construction of the west side railroad. It is gratifying to witness this proof of the absence of all hostile feeling on the part of East Portland toward this city. It is extremely generous in that place after having secured a railroad to suppress all spirit of rivalry and evince a disposition to help Portland to like good fortune. We shall be glad to see East Portland capital enlisted in this road. Such a step will help to dispel the idea propagated by many that East Portland is hostile to the interests of this city and resolved to use all its power to convert Portland into a [illegible]. If now East Portland capital can be brought to bear on this enterprise so that we may be assured of having a railroad on this side of the river the two places will be united by a common interest and the future of Portland will be assured. As the capitalists of this city are now agitating this matter the offer of aid from East Portland is timely and should be [illegible] in the same spirit in which it is tendered.

The New York Tribune of June [illegible]th says: The great railroad operators are preparing to renew the war upon each other. Commodore Vanderbilt yesterday informed President Gould that all arrangements hitherto existing between the New York Central and Erie lines are to be considered null and void. The Commodore has refused to receive tickets between Buffalo and Niagara Falls and is said to be endeavoring to block the routes to Chicago and the Northwest. Messrs Gould and Fisk are prepared for the issue. Mr Vanderbilt having also ignored, according to report, the arrangements with the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, negotiations for a defensive and offensive alliance are being carried on between the Erie and Pennsylvania Central Companies.

The Cleveland Leader, summing up the Congressional possibilities in the next election in Ohio, gives the Republicans eleven districts, and the Democrats four, leaving four districts doubtful.

Congressional

WASHINGTON, June 23.—In the Senate Sumner from the Committee on Foreign Affairs reported a substitute for the House Cuban resolutions. They declare that the United States protest against the outrageous barbarities by both parties and [illegible] that they be stopped at once and demand that slavery be abolished in all the dominions of Spain [illegible]. They express the belief that the day of European sway is at an end and that our people object to witness the efforts of Spain to maintain her hold upon Cuba against the wishes of the Cubans, and express sympathy with the people of Cuba in their efforts to secure independence and with the liberal party in Spain who are endeavoring to secure a free government there.

In the House, Butler reported the Georgia bill from the Reconstruction Committee with a substitute being the same as the Texas bill, with the simple addition of giving those four States the right to organize militia.

Davis offered a substitute recognizing the fact that Georgia had ratified the amendments to the constitution and was entitled to representation and to authorize her to organize militia in her defense.

Two Chinamen fought in a house on Brooklyn Place at eleven o'clock. One struck the other on the head with an iron bar, inflicting a severe wound. The party assaulted seized the assaulter with the intention of holding him till an officer could be found, but before the policeman came the assaulter broke away and leaped a second story window to the sidewalk, a distance of thirty feet. He was picked up insensible and taken to the station house. It was then discovered he had sustained serious internal injuries by the fall.

A Letter from Puget Sound

SEATTLE, W. T., June 20, 1870.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

Now that the political battle is over and peace begins to resume its sway, all are beginning to [illegible] the National Pacific Railroad Company's terminus. As the bill which has passed Congress takes the road by way of Portland to the Sound (its western terminus), [illegible] property at the head of the Sound is favorably affected and with some degree of reason. All railroads invariably make their terminus, whether permanent or temporary, at the first deep water, as they save in transit of their rolling stock, etc., by land. SATURDAY MORNING JUNE 25 1870

CITY.

FIRE.—At half past four o'clock yesterday morning a fire broke out in a small tenement house on Yamhill street between Second and Third. The fire made very rapid progress and [illegible] by the time the engines were at hand it had not only spread through the house in which it originated but had [illegible] the two houses adjoining. The hand engines first standing on the [illegible] had an efficient force and began playing [illegible] but could not make headway for the flames [illegible] the steam engines were nearly ten minutes [illegible]. When at last after longer delay getting into play [illegible] than we have ever before observed, the steamer [illegible] the fire had nearly consumed the [illegible] two story shell in which it started and had got into the two [illegible] adjoining houses on Yamhill and another fronting on Third street. Though the fire was soon then got under, these four houses were entirely ruined, though [illegible] the skeletons [illegible] standing. The inmates assisted by the firemen and others succeeded in getting nearly all the furniture out so that the loss beyond the houses is not great. Some of the furniture was damaged somewhat by removal or by the heat of the fire and there was some damage done by the smart rain then falling. The total loss does not probably exceed twenty five hundred or three thousand dollars. Two of the houses belonged to Judge J. F. McCoy, one to Louis Fleischner and one to Mr Harbaugh. Nobody seems to know exactly how the fire originated. There was at first a report that the two story building was fired by some one on the outside but [illegible] probable that it resulted from some carelessness of the inmates. This is the most considerable fire we have had in the city for many months.

RELIGIOUS.—The subjoined items are from the Advocate of this morning:

The next Quarterly meeting for Wilbur [illegible] District will be held at Camas Swale, near Bro. Butler's.

The Fourth Quarterly Meeting for Tillamook charge, Portland District, will be held July 30th and 31st and that for Clear Creek August 6th and 7th.

The Cumberland Presbyterians will hold a camp meeting on the Abiqua, near the residence of Barnet Allen, Esq., two miles and a half from Silverton, to commence on Friday the first day of July.

On Wednesday morning next the Preachers' meeting will be held at the Taylor street M. E. Church, at 10 o'clock. Each of the ministerial brethren is expected to present the chief features of some scriptural character. All are invited to attend.

We are informed by Dr Dixon of this city, that Rev A. [illegible] Ross, A. M., of the Wesleyan Methodist Conference, stationed for the past two years at Victoria, B. C., has expressed his intention to [illegible] the Oregon Annual Conference at its next session at Vancouver, W. T., Aug 25.

There will be a basket meeting held at the Fern Prairie school house in Clarke county, W. T., to commence on Saturday before the second Sabbath in July. The friends will please prepare by every possible effort for a good meeting. An invitation is extended to all Christians to be in attendance. Rev W. Pinner will aid in the meeting.

MASONIC.—We get from Astoria the following list of officers of the Grand Lodge A. F. and A. M., and Grand Chapter R. A. Masons elected at Astoria this week:

OREGON CENTRAL RAILROAD.—There was a meeting Thursday evening in this city of parties interested in the Oregon Central Railroad. We have no authorized statement from any one of the proceedings had, but we learn from various sources that Mr J. Gaston, President, reported fully as to his proceedings in the matter of the road, and that a committee of three was appointed to undertake the raising of such funds as may be necessary to put the first twenty miles of the road in condition for track laying. It is understood that the contract with the Philadelphia builders, requires the Railroad Company to grade, build bridges and lay down the ties—everything to be in perfect order for the rails. To do this, it will be necessary for the company to raise in Oregon about $50 000. Mr G. W. Neilson, Agent for the contractors, arrived by the Moses Taylor to learn the exact situation and to make arrangements for proceeding with the work. It is very likely that the public will in a few days have definite information as to what can and will be done this year.

CATHOLIC MISSION.—The Catholic Sentinel of this morning says: Very Rev F. X. Weninger, S. J., has been holding a mission at St. Paul during the past week with his usual fervor and zeal and Rev Father Glorieux ably assisted. The mission was closed on last Thursday, with the sublime ceremony of erecting the mission cross. The great missionary is now engaged upon a mission to St. Patrick's Church in Yamhill county of which Rev Father Croquet is pastor. From thence it is the intention of Father Weninger to go to Victoria, V. I.

CHANGE OF BASE.—AN ADVANCE ON THE LINES.—Henry Martin, successor to McLaren Bros., has moved into the new room under the Odd Fellow's Hall fronting on Alder street, and we can say without exaggeration that he has one of the freshest, finest stocks of groceries, provisions, fruits, etc., that we have seen in the city.

FARM MACHINERY.—The farmers are still going—or rather coming—for harvesting machinery and farm implements. We do not dare to say exactly, because we do not know how many truck loads of it passed by our [illegible] yesterday, but it is safe to say [illegible] that there were many of them.

FIREMEN'S [illegible] ASSOCIATION.—There will be a meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association at the Council Chamber this evening to hear and consider the report of the committee on Constitution and by-laws. [illegible] particularly desirable. By order of the chairman.

WALLAMET [illegible].—The Wallamet Baptist Association commenced its Twenty second Annual Meeting at the First Baptist Church in this city yesterday [illegible] A. M. The introductory [illegible] preached by Rev T. M. Martin of Salem.

A NEW [illegible].—We hear it stated that the object of M. Jones' [illegible] Mears' [illegible] San Francisco [illegible] the material for a new daily newspaper [illegible] here within the next month and [illegible] Mr Mears [illegible] general charge.

WOOL.—We do [illegible] expect ever to have seen half so much wool [illegible] in the city warehouses as now. The P. T. Co.'s dock [illegible] is crowded with it, some marked for San Francisco, while others are destined for [illegible] up the valley.

LIVELY DAY.—There was a good deal of what is called rush [illegible] on [illegible] streets yesterday. The reception and storing of goods by our importers was the principal cause of the stir.

PICNIC POSTPONED.—On account of the present damp spell the annual picnic of the Emmet Guard is postponed to Sunday July 3d.

THE FLORAL FESTIVAL.—The net receipts of the Floral Festival on Wednesday evening last, were two hundred dollars.

The great missionary is now engaged upon [a mission at] St. Patrick's Church, in Yamhill [county, of] which Rev. Father Croquet is pastor. [It is] the intention of Father Weninger [to go] to Victoria, V. I."

[illegible].—Programme 23d Infantry [illegible] June 25th, 7 P. M.:

1. [illegible] March
2. The Anvil Polka.
3. [illegible] "Dobay Bark."
4. [illegible] German airs.
5. [illegible] La Traviata.
6. [illegible] Grande from Genevieve.

[illegible] BARS.—AN ADVANCE OF THE [illegible] Martin, successor to McLaren [illegible], has moved into the new room under the [illegible] Hall, fronting on Alder street, and [we say without] exaggeration that he has one [of the] finest stocks of groceries, provisions, [etc.], that we have seen in the city.

[illegible] MACHINERY.—The farmers are still going [on] coming—for harvesting machinery [and] implements. We don't dare to say [how] many (because we don't know) how many truck [loads] passed through the streets yesterday; [it is] safe to say in a general way that there [were plenty] of them.

FIREMEN'S RELIEF ASSOCIATION.—There will [be a] meeting of the Firemen's Relief Association [at the Counci]l Chamber this evening to hear and [act upon the] report of the Committee on Constitution [and] By-laws. A full meeting is particularly [desired]. By order of the Chairman.

[illegible] BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.—The Wal[illegible] Baptist Association commenced its Twenty[illegible] Annual Meeting at the first Baptist Church [in Salem] yesterday at 10 o'clock A. M. The [intro]ductory sermon was preached by Rev. T. M. [illegible] of Salem.

A NEW DAILY NEWSPAPER.—We hear it stated [that] the object of Mr. James O'Meara's visit to San Francisco is to purchase material for a new daily newspaper to be started here within the [next month], and to be under Mr. O'Meara's editorial charge.

WOOL.—We do not recollect ever to have seen [so] much wool in the city warehouses as now. The P. T. Co's dock is literally crowded with it—[some] marked for San Francisco, while other lots [are on the] way for the factories up the valley.

[illegible] DAY.—There was a good deal of what [is called] "rustling around" on our streets yesterday. [The] shipping and storing of goods by our [merchants] was the principal cause of the stir.

POSTPONED.—On account of the present [illegible], the annual picnic of the Emmet [illegible] to Sunday, July 3d.

COMPLIMENTARY RESOLUTIONS.—At a meeting of the delegates in attendance at the session of the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of A. F. and A. M., held at Astoria June 20, 1870, and also upon the excursion by the steamer Josie McNear to Fort Stevens and the Cape, held on board said boat, D. G. Clark, of Corvallis, was called to the Chair, and R. P. Earhart, of Salem, appointed Secretary, whereupon the following named gentlemen were appointed a committee to draft resolutions expressing our appreciation of the kindness and courtesy shown to us by the officers of Fort Stevens, and especially to Lieut. Maurice, of Fort Hancock, to-wit: M. V. Brown, of Albany; W. D. Hare, of Hillsboro; Jacob Conser, of Jefferson; R. P. Earhart, of Salem, and A. G. Walling, of Portland; whereupon said committee submitted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That our thanks be and are hereby extended to Maj. Darling, commanding officer at Fort Stevens, and also to the officers of his command, for the courtesy and kindness shown to us upon our visit to that post—for we were made to feel that hospitality and kindness which ever characterizes the true gentleman, and we recognize in them the conduct of true American officers.

Resolved, That our thanks are due, and are hereby extended to Lieut. Maurice, U. S. A., for his courtesy, kindness and gentlemanly treatment of us. We recognize in him the true Mason, excellent gentleman and gallant officer.

Resolved, That our thanks are due, Capt. Munson, Light-house keeper at Cape Disappointment, for courtesy and kindness extended; which resolutions were, on motion, unanimously adopted.

The Chairman and Secretary were requested to sign the same and forward them to the papers for publication. D. G. CLARK, Prest.

R. P. EARHART, Sec.

BRIEF MENTION.—The bark Whistler will be ready to day to receive freight.

The steamer Alert will leave at 6 A. M. on Sunday, to take excursionists to the Spiritual Grove meeting at Butteville.

The Moses Taylor brought up 36 set of car wheels for the Oregon and California Railroad.

Dispatches from the Dalles report the river falling.

The late appearance of several new houses at East Portland indicate something of the prevalent prosperity of that burg.

The Washington Guard give a ball on the evening of July 4th.

APPOINTED.—Dr. Wm. B. Cardwell, of this city, has been appointed Acting Assistant Surgeon at Fort Stevens, and leaves here for that post on Monday next. We congratulate the Doctor upon his appointment, and the people of the post and vicinity upon having among them an accomplished and experienced physician and surgeon.

ARRIVED.—The Jane A. Falkinburg, fifteen days from Honolulu to Astoria, was towed to Rainier by the Fannie Troup and from there by the Julia, and arrived here about nine last night. We have not received her manifest.

$10,000 WORTH OF BOOTS AND SHOES.—Protzman Bros. sometime since opened their store with a heavy stock of fresh goods from San Francisco. To supply the demand they have had to make a second purchase of $10,000 worth, which have just arrived. They think they have enough for all. For particulars, read advertisement.

DETERMINED TO CELEBRATE.—We are authorized to say that another meeting of citizens will be held at the Council Chamber this evening to make arrangements for celebrating the 4th of July.

ACCIDENT.—On Thursday one of the Railroad employes at East Portland, had a hand seriously hurt by getting it caught in the coupling of two of the dump cars.

TO LOAD WITH LUMBER.—The North German bark Hertha will go down to St. Helens to day in tow of the Julia, there to load with lumber for a foreign port.

Proposition to Build the West Side Road.

EAST PORTLAND, June 24, 1870.

To the Citizens of Portland: Without desiring to be accused of "blowing my own horn," I may claim the honor of having engineered, with the assistance of some friends, the east side railroad to a success. Believing that East Portland's future does not depend upon making Portland a "rat hole," but that our interests are identical, I am willing to assist you in building the west side road.

I have made arrangements with capitalists in Europe to obtain money for all legitimate railroad enterprises in Oregon, and am in a condition to build your road according to the act of Congress with all due speed, if you will agree with me on the details of the organization.

I am ready to give proper bonds for carrying this proposition into effect. I am in earnest, and mean business, notwithstanding what may be said to the contrary by interested parties who wish to frighten you into supplying money to build the road so that they may continue to feather their own nests.

I will pay back to every person every dollar they have laid out legitimately on the road, and build it without costing the people of the west side one cent. Yours, A. M. LORYEA.

OLD WORLD ITEMS.

The telegraphic line that is to unite England with Egypt makes gratifying progress.

The Chinese Embassy in Europe has received orders from Pekin to return homeward overland through Russia and Siberia.

The project of a Catholic University at Madrid, Spain, makes rapid progress. Twenty distinguished professors are on the list.

Three remarkable monuments of the Merovingian era have been lately unearthed in Paris, but, unfortunately, were broken by the implements of the workmen.

The export of cotton from the Madras Presidency have increased nearly sixty per cent, since 1866, owing to the opening of the railway to the cotton growing districts.

From Spain we learn that the splendid mines of Almaden have been leased for a term of thirty years to the house of Rothschild for one hundred and thirty millions of reals.

The Prussian Government is now sending quantities of gabions and piles for palisades to the frontiers of the Rhine. This looks like defensive fortification and tallies with the seacoast preparations.

M. Plicon, the new French Minister of Public Works, has but one arm, whereupon a pitiless Paris wag remarks "Well, he cant dip in with both hands any how." We have but few one armed office holders.

A universal industrial exhibition is announced to begin at Cassel, Germany, on the 1st of June and last until September. The main front of the building is 719 feet in length and the space covered in is 7,200 square feet.

The German provinces of Russia have received official hints that their claims to special privilege do not rest upon international law, but that they are governed by the fixed statues of the Russian Empire. Short and sharp.

The Workingmen's Union of Nuremberg, Germany, has protested against the proposed electoral law restricting the right of voting to persons over twenty-five years of age, and making thirty the earliest for eligibility to office.

It is rumored that, during the Czar's brief sojourn in Berlin, the King of Prussia said a good word to him in behalf of the German provinces of Russia, which have petitioned for the preservation of their language, their religion and their laws.

The Emperor of Russia is making a brilliant season at Ems. The whole town was illuminated on the night of his arrival, and the Grand Duke and Prince Alexander, of Hesse, were present to receive him. The populace were very enthusiastic.

The Marseillaise, of Paris, states that its former editors, Rochefort and Grousset, now imprisoned in Sainte Pelagie, have been notified by the warden that unless the articles signed "Dangerville" and "No 111" do not cease to appear in their paper they will be put in solitary confinement.

Another curious case of conscience has just benefitted the directors of a bank at Brussels. In January last they received a package accompanied by a letter requesting that the former should not be opened until three months had elapsed? When opened at the proper time the enclosure was found to contain 84,000 francs restored to the bank by a defaulter. "A good deed in a naughty world."

An additional lot of those handsome suits worn by everybody, both heavy and light weight, was received by Kohn & Fishel, No 88 Front street. They are equal to the best custom made and pleasing to all men that wear them. They also received an extra fine lot of striped calico shirts and Star white shirt. Their stock in clothing is the largest and finest in Oregon and sold at extreme low prices.

CURRENT NOTES.

A woman called at the Springfield Republican office lately, soliciting money to defray the expenses of furnishing a new house which she had just completed.

When the Fenian prisoner, James Moore, captured at Trout River, was brought into Montreal the crowd asked that he should be put upon a car and shot at. Some of the women present threatened him with all sorts of violence, and the crowd were greatly excited.

Commissioner Parker has received a letter, dated May 26, from Capt. E. M. Camp, agent at the Crow reservation. The Indians had a "talk" with the agent, stating that they wanted guns, shot and powder with which to shoot buffaloes and Sioux; they wanted to hunt below the Horn river, and drive the Sioux from there; and they didn't want their country taken away from them without being paid for it. White Mouth, the chief, said he would take ten negro girls for his land.

Complete returns for Congressman from the First District of South Carolina give Whittemore 9,504 votes and Dunn 1,339. Two years ago the Republicans cast 17,467 votes and the Democrats 11,918. The Charleston News says that many of the colored voters were disgusted with Whittemore and felt the disgrace he had brought upon them; and that failure of the white voters to support Mr. Dunn was, in all probability, mainly due to the feeling that it is better to let Whittemore go back to Congress with all his sins on his head.

The Chicago Republican of the 11th inst., has the following about the wheat market: To account for the late advance in the price of grain, the Eastern press hint, very mysteriously, that France and Germany are laying in a supply of all they can buy, and that something is likely to happen. On the surface, affairs in Europe look as placid as a quiet lake, but war always foreshadows itself in some way. The real explanation doubtless is that the severe drought prevailing on this side, extends over a part of Europe, and there is danger of a short crop. This solution looks more reasonable than the theory of anticipated hostilities.

Human Life.—He who saves a human life prolongs its days on earth is a public benefactor. Health is life; health is happiness; health makes wealth; health gives a clear intellect; health fathers a noble offspring and peoples up the globe with men and women of God-like physiques. If we would have pure, red, rich, electrical blood—blood that gives tone to the system, the "rose-tint of health" to the cheek—we must keep the stomach laboratory in perfect order. PLANTATION BITTERS will correct prostration, enrich the blood, strengthen and invigorate digestion, arouse a torpid liver, and abate a nervous headache. They will impart tone and circulation to the blood and the whole nervous system.

Sea Moss Farine from pure Irish Moss, for Blanc Mange, Puddings, Custards, Creams, &c., &c. The cheapest, healthiest and most delicious food in the world.

Thrice Armed!

Thrice is he armed who keeps within reach of his hand a specific that at one and the same time will strengthen, regulate and purify his system when enfeebled, disordered and corrupted.

Such is the three-fold operation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and hence the great superiority of that standard vegetable restorative over all medicines that are merely tonics and nothing else. The effect of the ordinary astringent tinctures and extracts upon the bowels is disastrous, and upon the depraved blood or bile they produce no beneficial effects whatever. In dyspepsia and liver complaints all the fluids and humors of the body are more or less infected, and the bowels are often badly constipated. An unmodified astringent—quinine for instance—does infinitely more harm than good in such cases. In Hostetter's Bitters on the other hand, the stimulating and tonic elements are qualified with aperients and antiseptic ingredients. The finest laxatives and blood depurents in the vegetable kingdom are intermixed with those of a purely invigorating nature, and under the operation of this admirable combination, the three important processes of invigoration, regulation and purification go on together. The rapidity with which the disordered organization returns to its natural condition, under a course of the Bitters is due to this cause. Every disturbed function of the body is favorably affected by the various properties of this comprehensive and well balanced preparation. As a general rule the bowels are subject to irregularities, and the fluids liable to become vitiated, and hence the Bitters are especially valuable as an alterative, corrective and invigorant. In all districts where the seeds of intermittent fevers infect the air, the healthful vegetable elixir should be taken as a protective medicine.

G. VENARD,

CHARTRES COFFEE!

Manufactory Established in June, 1851.

STEAM POWER, NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

320 ACRES OF LAND, IN JACKSON COUNTY, for sale or exchange for city property. It is in the suburbs of Gasburg. Gasburg, like the beaver, is all "terminus." The branch of the Central Pacific Railroad will intersect the Oregon and California road at Gasburg. The Oregon Central will run through it, as does the stage road now, and many a railroad as yet unthought of, will find its "terminus" in Gasburg. The warm and dry winters, the mild Italian summers, the gushing spring water at short intervals, the lofty peaks of the Cascades on the east, the Coast Range on the west, the broad and fertile valleys on the north and south, and last, but not least, the inexhaustible forests on every hand, make it naturally one of the finest "terminuses" that ever was attached onto the "tother end of any railroad. Also a one-third interest in a water-ditch and forty acres of mining lands, which have been worked for nine years and never failed to pay a dividend.

WEST POINT.

Sorrowful End of a Flirtation.

[Cor. of the N. Y. World.]

WEST POINT, June 8th.—As the bad weather prevented any outdoor review in honor of the advent of General Belknap, Secretary of War, yesterday, a trooper drill was ordered at the riding school at five P. M. To that building quite a number of visitors, including most of the distinguished guests at the Point, repaired in hacks and omnibusses, and ascended to the rough galleries overlooking the interior. The hall is oblong in shape, laid with sawdust and roofed with an arch spanning the whole structure from side wall to wall. Around the sides below a wainscot of boards on end is constructed, slanting down and inwards, thus preventing a horse from shying against the wall and crushing his rider's legs. On either side of the hall three posts are set—one opposite the center, under the gallery, the other two near the angles at the ends of the apartment. They are about six feet from the wall, leaving just room enough for a horse and rider to pass between. On the top of the first post near the angle is laid a stuffed leather pad of about the size and consistency of a boxing-glove. Midway between that and the middle post, on the ground, lies a similar pad. From a light gallowsbeam at the summit of the higher middle post depends an iron ring, like that at which the knight tilted at the recent Brooklyn tournament. Midway on again, between the middle post and the post standing near the farther angle, lies another pad, and still another is laid on the farthest post. The pads represent the heads or hearts of imaginary enemies on foot or kneeling, the ring the head of an enemy on horseback. So, while making the circuit on the hall, a rider encounters no less than four supposable foes on foot, four kneeling with the bayonet, or dodging his onslaught to the very ground, and two on horseback—ten in all. This, as shown by the exercises yesterday, keeps a cavalryman lively.

THE CADETS,

Forty or fifty of them, seated on their horses in two ranks facing each other from the opposite ends of the hall, presented, clad all in gray, a fine but rather Confederate appearance. They wore sabres, revolvers, and spurs. Their horses, freshly groomed and oiled, showed glistening hides. A young cavalry Lieutenant, on a distracting charger, directed them with clear, ringing commands. Twos at a time—one riding out to an angle of the hall, another to the opposite angle—they rode at a gallop around the building, "going for" the pads and the rings. At the first pad on the first post every cavalryman fired with his pistol. Sheathing that in its holster, he then drew his sabre and trusted to cold steel. Whack! went the blade against the pad on the ground at the feet of the galloping horse. Cling! rang the blade against the ring, carrying it away. Thud! upon the next pad. Ping! and the pad on the farthest post was spitted aloft on the point of the cadet's sabre. So on around. So rapid was the riding that soon the reports of the revolvers and the clang of steel became incessant. The atmosphere became impregnated with powder smoke. The riders rode through smudge. Hurdles were brought in. Over them they went, carrying away the rings as they leaped. By this time the horses were reeking with sweat, which, mingling with the oil of their toilets, made them as slippery as greased pigs. The order to dismount was given.

OFF CAME THE SADDLES

And saddle-cloths. The animals were naked to the bridles. "Mount!" and like Indians the cadets sprang into the air, and came down sans saddles, sans stirrups, on the horses' bare backs. "It felt," said one of them afterwards, "as if I had straddled an enormous eel." Again the order to ride was given, the pistols rang out; steel clashed; the hurdles cracked under rushing horses' hoof—the horses going at their utmost speed—their riders keeping their seats superbly, and cutting, thrusting, banging away. The horses, excited to a degree not surpassed even in actual battle by this rack [illegible] running, got so restive at last that some of the cadets had opportunities to display their very best horsemanship. To the ladies in the galleries the rearing and plunging of the [illegible], one or two of which tried the [illegible] of falling in order to unship their clinging freights, were especially pleasing. [illegible], by the way, that it is sheer nonsense, the idea of American women being any less "cruel," as we call it, than the Spanish. Neither are really fond of bloodshed or fatal accidents at shows; it is the gallantry displayed in the encounters of the ring or the tournament, the courage which in the worst dangers ennobles the person in the plight, that has the enthusiastic, not to say hysterical, sympathy of lovely woman in all lands.

THE CADETS AND THE WOMEN.

Here the cadets are rewarded for such displays, and soothed after the trials of the day by the profuse attentions both of girls younger and women older than they. Those who can get leave for the evening are happy. If you saunter, at dusk, into the parlors of Cozzens' or the West Point Hotel, you will see them sitting, twos and twos, cadet and maiden, in the darkest corners or shielded by the window curtains, purring to each other like pussies. If, a little later, you stroll out along the walks under the trees, every flare of your cigar discloses a couple more of them, flirting. "Why is it," I asked a lady this morning, "[illegible] that the women are so fond of the [illegible]?" "Well, I don't know; unless it is [illegible] the cadets are so very fond of them!"

THE LADS IN GRAY.

Are indeed "devoted." They don't have the present opportunities all the year round. They make hay, now, while the sun shines—yes, and long after it has set. There is a freshness and novelty to most girls from town, and often to pretty old girls, in the frank adulations and tireless attentions of the cadets. As they are such boys, too, a little affair with them is considered quite safe. The deuce it is! I should like to have a fair count made of the young women who go away from here annually at the close of the examinations with their hearts, hard as they brought them, cracked to smithereens. Likewise, things have happened which make it an interesting question whether remorse has not overtaken more than one woman who lightly fled from the conflagration she had kindled in the breast of a too trusting cadet. I never come to West Point but I am reminded of

A YOUNG OFFICER,

A surgeon, whom I met some years ago on the Mexican steamer plying between San Francisco and Mazatlan. He told me this singular story late one night on the hurricane deck, off the coast of Lower California: He had been a West Pointer, and graduated with honor. A year before his graduation, he fell recklessly in love with a girl about his own age, with whom he corresponded for six months. At the end of that time she promised to marry him. The correspondence continued, during the next annual examination (when he graduated) she visited West Point, as usual, with her mother, remaining until after the distribution of diplomas, and treating him on two occasions when he was able to meet her with all the signs of affection. She suffered him to kiss her when they were alone, walked with him, and, though evading the special topic of their

PROMISED MARRIAGE,

Received his devotion as a matter of course and without an attempt to check it. He met her the third time on one of the public walks within an hour or two after receiving his diploma. She was leaning on the arm of a gentleman considerably older than herself, whom, bowing with customary enchanting smile, she introduced to her cadet lover as her husband! My steamer acquaintance, who looked, when I encountered him away off there on the coast of Mexico, much the worse for dissipation and rough wear, told me that that was too much for him. He merely paused to ask whether she was deceiving him, and in the midst of her response, which was a burst of mocking laughter. He was locked up by some of his companions, and taken to the barracks. Temporary pride and pluck saved him from an immediate term of sickness. He begged for a far Western assignment, got it, and, throwing up his furlough, left at once for his regiment. Since then he had led a dishonorable life, which I shall not shock the reader as he did me by the recital of. Having been ignominiously tried and convicted out of the United States Army years before, he was now on his way to seek service under Maximilian, and certainly I hope never [illegible] woman [illegible] employed in phrase so indignant as that with which, on the steamer's deck that night, this complete ruin of an officer and gentleman [illegible] cursed the sex and the coquette who had so cruelly deceived him.

Remodeling Old Places.

It is a much easier and simpler thing to lay down the plan for a tasteful home, and its exterior adornments, upon new land, than it is to perfect a design for the treatment of an old property, which shall judiciously spare old trees, utilize old outbuildings and roadways, and dexteriously save all that is worth saving in the equipments of a long-established homestead.

No one buys an old place without some hope of giving to its aspect a little color of his own tastes, and if an ordinary farm, with its outbuildings and fences, is the subject of purchase, the need is still greater for such re-disposition or new equipment as shall meet the requirement of the new owner.

Is it possible to set down within the limits of a newspaper article any hints which shall guide the purchaser in such remodeling of a country place?

We can at least submit a caution or two which may be safely kept in mind:

1st. Do not entertain the notion that all change is necessarily improvement, or that you will gain the best results by creating the largest possible contrast with what you find. It may well be that some group of trees, or walk, or roadway, which offend, will, by some balancing treatment of other parts, be converted into excellent features.

2d. Do not rashly part with old trees; do not thin indiscriminately forest growth, or fancy for a moment that you can convert a thick wood into an attractive open grove by the thinning you can do in a single season. If you attempt it, you will very likely leave weakened boles which the next equinoctial will prostrate.

3d. Do not cut up all disorderly hedgerows, where elders and sumacs and bittersweets are leading a wild life; by deft handling of these, or parts of them you may secure better effects of foliage than all your gardener's exotic planting can command.

4th. Do not count on trim walls or fencing as the best allies of the attractiveness of a homestead. Dapper fencing is the poorest possible dependence, and the beauty that lies in this is least satisfying of all conceivable ones about a country home.

5th. Do not sacrifice the quaintness of an old house whose timbers are sound, and rooms ample, for any ambitious "joinery;" and if you repair, consult an architect who will guard lovingly the old quaintness, and make the added convenience graft into it with a harmony that will be piquant and refreshing.

6th. Do not lay down more of walks and roadways than you are quite sure will be kept in order without overtasking your working force, and no more of either roads or paths than there shall be positive use for. A labyrinth of twining walks that nobody ever goes in are a deceit and an impertinence.

7th. Do not let your gardener delude you into making a garden large enough to supply all the parish—unless you mean to make yourself almoner of its wealth, and to distribute vegetables in place of money (which is a poor sort of charity.)

8th. Do not count it necessary to harness all your fields into fences, or to blast out all outcropping rocks; fences are a nuisance, and rocks are, many times, a glory in the landscape. Only within a few days we have seen, in the neighborhood of a little suburban town, a score of workmen blasting and delving, to throw down a noble old bit of granite cliff, and to bury it under the sod, for the sake of securing cockney smoothness. The smoothness will come, after a thousand or two of cost, but the most piquant and charming feature of the little lawn will be utterly gone.

9th. Do not suppose that you know all about lawns, and approaches, and planting, and whatever makes up an engaging rural picture, because you know all about stocks, or machinery, or fine beef; and do not imagine that a professional adviser must needs tell you at the first glance just what bush, or tree, or walk is to be spared, any more than an architect could tell you just what closet or gable he may leave in a proposed remodeling of the old house. There must be a carefully matured plan, which—based on due knowledge of all existing features—will spare all that can be wisely spared, and suggest all that can be most prudently done to ensure convenience, and to illustrate every charm of the place.

10th. Do not hope to accomplish all in a season. Trees must grow; shrubs must gain root-hold; vines must clamber; and in watching these, as they conspire with their green thrift and luxuriance to cover the rawness, and set off the special traits of your country home, you will grow insensibly into the possession of the largest and sweetest experiences which the out-of-door life in the country can afford.—Hearth and Home.

HAMLET'S MADNESS.—The question of Hamlet's madness has been much discussed and variously decided. High medical authority has pronounced, as usual, on both sides of the question. But the induction has been drawn from too narrow premises, being based on mere diagnosis of the case, and not on an appreciation of the character in its completeness. We have a case of pretended madness in the Edgar of King Lear; and it is certainly true that that is a charcoal sketch, scarcely outlined, compared with the delicate drawing, the lights, shades, and half-tints of the portraiture in Hamlet. But does this tend to prove that the madness of the latter, because truer to the recorded observation of experts, is real, and meant to be real, as the other to be fictitious? Not in the least, as it appears to me. Hamlet, among all the characters of Shakespeare, is the most eminently a metaphysician and physiologist. He is a close observer, continually analyzing his own nature and that of others, letting fall his little drops of acid irony on all who come near him, to make them show what they are made of. Even Ophelia is not too sacred, Ulrick not too contemptible for experiment. If such a man assumed madness, he would play his part perfectly. If Shakespeare himself, without going mad, could so observe and remember all the abnormal symptoms as to be able to reproduce them in "Hamlet," why should it be beyond the power of Hamlet to reproduce them in himself? If you deprive Hamlet of reason, there is no truly tragic motive left. He would be a fit subject for Bedlam, but not for the stage. We might have pathology enough, but no pathos. Ajax first becomes tragic when he recovers his wits. If Hamlet is irresponsible, the whole play is a chaos. That he is not so may be proved by evidence enough, were it not labor thrown away.—Lowell's "Among My Books."

A SUDDEN MISTAKE.—A servant girl who was sent, a day or two ago, to a druggist in this city with a request that he would give her some castor oil disguised as much as possible, was asked by the druggist if she liked soda water, and replied in the affirmative. The druggist thereupon gave her a glass strongly flavored with lemon, with much oil cast upon the troubled water. Noticing that she lingered after receiving this, the druggist inquired into the cause, and was told that she was waiting for the oil. "Oh," replied the man of drugs, complacently, "you have taken that." The startled woman gazed at him in dismay a moment, and then exclaimed, "Oh, murder! I wanted it for a man who is very sick."—N. Y. Times.

Mr. Beecher did not originate church applause, for about the time he was born Dr. Channing was preaching in the Stone Chapel, at the solemn festival in commemoration of the overthrow of Bonaparte, and when he uttered the words "The oppressor is fallen, and the world is free," we are told by his biographer that "the pent-up feelings of the assembly burst forth in acclamation. The preacher paused, and calmly reminded his hearers that they were in the presence of God, to whose providential and their humble gratitude was due."

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Said Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and haggard faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life! In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his special study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus awards and certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, until become too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find them [illegible] in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them, until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patient's letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearny street, corner Commercial, (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. Post Office Box 952.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 952 ON THE LETTER.

Consultation FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.
